Christmas 2018 Autumn Winter

The living and dining room are two crucial areas to focus on this festive season. Over eggnog and mulled wine, set the scene for dinner parties and gift-giving with these decor tips inspired by a rustic, natural setting.

Rebecca Snowden, Interior Style Advisor at Furniture Choice, weighs in on creating a stylish and inviting atmosphere at home. "When it comes to the heart of the home, start off with a strong centrepiece," says Rebecca. "A timeless dark wood table offers a sophisticated and modern look against light interiors. Also, if you're often hosting dinner gatherings, a table with a central pedestal maximises legroom while doubling down on support and stability."

"A dark wood table can be paired with a variety of chairs, depending on the look you prefer," Rebecca adds. "Light fabric chairs provide contrast against the table's dark finish, while also lending an air of casual relaxation over meals. Alternatively, you can complete your table with a set of matching wooden chairs for a timeless and practical look."

For the living room, dial up the cosiness with a variety of textures. "Opting for an elegant, strong fabric like velvet will easily add cosiness and serious style presence to a space," Rebecca advises, "Anchor the living room with a statement velvet sofa, and layer with faux fur throws or cushions for a look that's perfect for the winter months."
