Mono chic Autumn Winter

Seen as a classic design combination, the vintage monochrome trend gives you the chance to seamlessly blend old and new interiors together. With monochrome constantly being reinvented in the worlds of fashion and design, this latest trend allows you to explore the full spectrum of both black and white, while playing with different textures and accessories.

Rebecca Snowden, Interior Style Advisor at Furniture Choice weighs in on how to capture this versatile yet cosy look. "The key is keep things simple and clean," says Rebecca. "For the living room, a plush white sofa juxtaposed against a modern coffee table sets the scene for an elegant and sophisticated space. Don't forget to add playful, personal elements when decorating. Photos, art and even your children's toys can add an inviting warmth to a space that might otherwise look austere."

"When it comes to the bedroom, make your monochrome look comfy and homely by experimenting with different textures. Thick woollen throws on the bed in grey or beige shades will soften the overall look and keep things cosy with a hint of drama."

If you regularly entertain guests, the dining room can also be another focus point of this trend. As Rebecca advises: "Pair a white dining table together with black dining chairs for a glamorous effect. The colour contrast creates an effortless yet classic look."
