Minimal living Spring Summer

Based on the results of a YouGov survey on behalf of Furniture Choice, minimalism emerged as Britain's preferred interior trend for summer 2019. With 46% of 2,004 participants voting for minimalism, it's easy to see why they picked this timeless and versatile theme.

According to Rebecca Snowden, Interior Style Advisor at Furniture Choice, the key to achieving the minimalist aesthetic at home is to keep it simple. "The minimalist philosophy is based on the belief that less is more," she explains. "Maintaining an organised and clutter-free home sets a solid foundation to style around."

Starting with a clean slate is a great way to introduce this trend in the living room. "A neutral centrepiece such as a light grey or taupe sofa against off-white walls showcases a quiet sophistication and quintessential appeal," she says. "Carefully curating accessories that you would like to add to the space prevents it from looking sterile - whether its soft cushions, an elegant throw or a chic coffee table. Take advantage of any natural light by bringing in indoor plants or inject a dose of personality by displaying stylish artwork."

Incorporating this approach in the dining room also provides plenty of opportunity to highlight the minimalist trend. "A round marble top table with a pedestal base adds a modern and striking touch when matched with sleek chrome chairs," Rebecca adds. "Its contemporary design frees up legroom and makes a glamorous statement."

"And if you are looking for something bigger, an extending dining table is a smart solution if you need more seats. The glossy white finish of the table pairs well with a high back dining chair as it accentuates the clean lines of both these pieces."
